PREFACE

This directory has been compiled in an effort to assist Bureau of Reclamation staff members who are required to deal with the various planning agencies in the 17 western states. The information included herein is available from a number of diverse sources but has never before been compiled into one document. Since the data has been culled from a variety of secondary sources (other directories, listings, and limited individual telephone and postal contacts), the availability of information varied from state to state. Also, due to varying collecting and printing schedules of the sources, some of the information may not be as current as others, e.g., mayors, county commissioners, city managers, etc. The addresses and phone numbers, however, should remain consistent.

Key contacts were listed whenever possible. If the positions of planning director and/or city (or county) manager existed, it was listed; otherwise, a mayor, commissioner, or clerk is named. Where such information was unavailable, and there was reason to believe that a planning commission existed, just the place name, address, and if possible, the phone number are given.

Where there appear to be omissions in certain states (e.g., no regional agencies in Wyoming or county planning commissions in Texas), it is generally because such institutions do not exist. In some states, there may be agencies that exist but are not included. In a few instances, we simply could not find a source in the state that could or would supply us with information. In those cases, primarily data on counties, the listings are not as complete as in other areas. Also, the Idaho Municipal League was updating their directory during the time of our search and, therefore, municipal officers and counties in which the cities and towns are located could not be listed for that state.

As users identify omissions and can supply more complete information, please forward such data to Mr. James E. Dunn, Jr., Land Use Planner, Bureau of Reclamation, Denver. Such additional sources will be helpful when this directory is updated.

I wish to express special appreciation to Beverly McHenry who directed the search for and compilation of the information contained in this Directory. We hope that this singular directory of planning agencies will prove useful and permit a more efficient expenditure of time and resources for the user.

The Forest Service has the Federal responsibility for national leadership in forestry. To do this it has adopted the following objectives and policies:

- Promotion and achievement of a pattern of natural resource uses that will best meet the needs of people now and in the future;
- Protection and improvement of the quality of air, water, soil, and natural beauty;
- Protection and improvement of the quality of the open space environment in urban and community areas;
- Generation of forestry opportunities to accelerate rural community growth;
- Encouragement of the growth and development of forestry-based enterprises that readily respond to consumers' changing needs;
- Optimum forest landownership patterns;

- Improvement of the welfare of underprivileged members of society;
- Involvement of the public in forestry policy and program formulation;
- Encouragement of the development of forestry throughout the world;
- Expansion of public understanding of environmental conservation; and
- Development and availability of a firm scientific base for the advancement of society.

Soil Conservation Service

Administrator: Kenneth E Grant, Washington

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) has the responsibility for developing and carrying out a national soil and water conservation program in cooperation with landowners and operators and other land users and developers, with community planning agencies and regional resource groups, and with other agencies of government--Federal, State, and local. The SCS also assists in agricultural pollution control, environmental improvement, and rural community development.

Office of Water Research and Technology

Ass't Secretary--Land & Water Resources: Jack O Horton, Washington, DC

The Office of Water Research and Technology (OWRT) performs water resources research and development activities (through contracts and grants) and related functions vested in the Secretary of the Interior. The fundamental purposes of OWRT are to develop new or improved technology and methods for solving or mitigating existing and projected State, regional, and nationwide water resource problems; to train water scientists and engineers through their on-the-job participation in research work; and to accomplish water research coordination and research results information dissemination activities.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, contact the Office of Water Research and Technology, Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240; phone: 202/343-5881 or 202/343-4607.

United States Fish and Wildlife Service

Director: Lynn A Greenwalt, Washington, DC

The objective of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, which is responsible for wild birds, mammals (except certain marine mammals), inland sport fisheries, and specific fishery research activities, is to assure maximum opportunity for the American people to benefit from fish and wildlife resources as part of their natural environment. Within this framework, the Service assists in the development of an environmental stewardship ethic for our society based on ecological principles, scientific knowledge of wildlife, and a sense of moral responsibility; guides the conservation, development, and management of the Nation's fish and wildlife resources, and administers a national program which provides opportunities to the American public to understand, appreciate, and wisely use these resources

2435 Virginia Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20037
202/254-7030

The Region consists of Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

WATER RESOURCES COUNCIL

2120 L Street NW
Washington, DC 20037
202/254-6303
Director: WARREN D FAIRCHILD

The Council was established to maintain a continuing study of the adequacy of supplies of water necessary to meet the requirements in each water resource region in the United States, of the relation of regional or river basin plans and programs to the requirements of larger regions of the Nation, and of the adequacy of administrative and statutory means for the coordination of the water and related land resources policies and programs of the several Federal agencies. The Council also reviews the plans of the River Basin Commissions and transmits these plans with its recommendations to the President for his review and transmittal by him to Congress. It administers a program of Federal financial grants to States to aid them in comprehensive water and related land resource planning.

FEDERAL REGIONAL COUNCILS

A Federal Regional Council (FRC) was created for each of the ten standard Federal regions and an Under Secretaries Group for Regional Operations, chaired by the Deputy Director of the Office of Management and Budget, was established to provide policy guidance to Federal Regional Councils. The Councils were mandated to improve coordination of the categorical grant system and to develop closer working relationships among themselves, and with State and local governments.
